The theory centers on the notion that meanings are developed in coordination with others rather than separately within each individual. Thu, 07 Aug 2014 23:55:00 GMT Social constructionism - Wikipedia - Psychology is the science of behavior and mind, including conscious and unconscious phenomena, as well as feeling and thought. It is an academic discipline of immense scope and diverse interests that, when taken together, seek an understanding of the emergent properties of brains, and all the variety of epiphenomena they manifest. As a social science it aims to understand individuals and groups ... Psychology - Wikipedia - Interventions to change health-related behaviours typically have modest effects and may be more effective if grounded in appropriate theory. Most theories applied to public health interventions tend to emphasise individual capabilities and motivation, with limited reference to context and social factors.
